Creative Writing
summer school

Are you passionate about writing?

31 May–28 June 2014

The British Council Greece and Kingston Writing School are proud to announce the second annual International Creative Writing Summer School in partnership with Kingston University, London. This year's Summer School will be bigger and better, with specialist workshops for anyone wishing to enhance their skills and talent as a writer. Established writers and Kingston University professors will work in small groups with writers from across the world on an intensive programme, which will involve workshops, a range of writing activities, group discussions, readings and one-to-one tutorials.

Whether you are an aspiring writer embarking on your first writing project, an accomplished writer, poet or a writer somewhere in between, the International Creative Writing Summer School will give you the opportunity to explore and develop your imaginative and expressive potential, and maximise the impact of your work.
